

JOHN TIBBS

Hailing from the Midwest, John Tibbs has built his success the old-school way: by playing shows, writing great songs, and truly caring about those he meets along the way.

Tibbs was catapulted into the music industry by a successful release with Noisetrade.com. Through that platform, John developed an online community of more than 100,000 supporters who helped crowd-fund his independent recordings, and it wasn't long before he'd piqued the interest of major record labels.

In 2016, John released his debut full-length, Dead Man Walking, to great critical acclaim. Reviewers said about the album, "with shades of Bruce Springsteen, John Mellencamp and Creedence Clearwater Revival, the heartland rock Tibbs traffics in is just right for the weightier, darker side of the redemption story."

In partnership with Pledge Music and ToneTree, Tibbs is set to release a new project in the fall of 2017 under his independent label, Windmill and Wave.

John currently resides in Nashville with his wife, Emily and their dog, Lady. For more information on John Tibbs, tour dates and social media links, visit www.JohnTibbsMusic.Com